Re: Request for Temporary Resident Permit

I, John Doe, am currently inadmissible to Canada due to my previous DUI conviction, which occurred in March of 2009. My wife Jane is inadmissible because of this, too. However, there are strong grounds to consider the issuing me a Temporary Resident Permits to allow my wife and I to go on our hunting trip. Please see below.

I was celebrating a promotion and had too much to drink. I hit a dumpster and damaged my car more than the dumpster. I was fined and my license was suspended. I was ordered to attend meetings, which I did.

I was convicted of Driving While Impaired (DWI). I was given nearly the minimum sentence. The judge understood that I was likely not going to repeat my crime. I have never had a DWI conviction before and I haven't had one since either.

I am trusted by my employer with handling sensitive information and managing many people. I am viewed as a stable and reliable individual. I can provide references to that effect.

I am leading a company-organized family hunting trip to northern Ontario. My wife and I will be traveling with 7 other couples and all of us will be staying at the Hunting Lodge in Town, Ontario. We will be staying for two weeks and we will be contributing to the economy of the area the whole time we are staying there, as all 16 of us will need to eat and resupply every day.

I ask that you issue myself and my wife temporary resident permits valid for the next year to allow our trip to Canada.

Sincerely,

John Doe
